Company profile

Alarmhandler was founded in 2015 and delivers security solutions aimed at private consumers. It is a platform that turns inexpensive IP cams into an alarm system. It monitors the sensors and activates your response team if an event occurs.
Alarmhandler is brought to you by a small team dedicated to bring safety to everyone.
Alarmhandler is a subsidiary to Compelling Software, a software development company specializing in consumer market apps.

Quote from founder

Søren Aldenryd (founder) about Alarmhandler:
"We had traditional fire sensors and an old burglar alarm in my home. We wanted to remotely monitor the alarms, to know someone reacts when our dog is home alone. But replacing the existing systems is really expensive and complicated, so we looked for a way to combine existing security systems with inexpensive IP cameras. We found no proper solutions in the market, so we decided to create Alarmhandler - the solution that makes security affordable for everyone."
